The vegetable kingdom and brute creation are said to be unanimous in "signs" of an unusually severe winter, and there is no doubt that the prostrated condition of trade, manufactures and commerce during, the past summer and fall were calculated to leave the poorer classes in a condition particularly subject to attacks of cold and hunger. It surely cannot be necessary then to refer the kind hearted to the unusual richness of their new furs, nor even to the blood-curdling thermometer, to assure them, that there is much nor even to the blood-curding incrmom-ter, to assure them, that there is much suffering abroad even thus early in the ing in this city goes to bed hungry these nights and gets up cold and without food or coal at hand to relieve their wants. The Poor Man's Champagne— Who Makes It, How It is Made, and How Much is Made and Drank in Wheeling.

"The poor man's champagne," said our friend Brown, as he held his glass up to the light and admired the light ruby tints and delicate shades of amber, "here is health and strength," he continued, wiping his moustache, to which little fakes of white foam clung, "here is drink for the thirsty, and meat for the hungry, and satisfaction to the stomach, and delight to the eye, and tiltilating pleasure to the palate, and only a nickel for it all." And then Brown thrust his nose deep down into the creamy foam and took another draught of the liquid, set down his empty glass, in the bottom of which the yellow drugs alowly gathered, smacked his lips and said:

Beauthal bitter beer."

Such an impression did Browa's remarks make upon our reporter (who was taking a drink at Browa's expense) that even then he conceived the idea of writing a little article for the readers of the INTELLIGENCES all about beer; and his mind reverted to Geo. Arnold's dream or reverie induced by two glasses of Bock and a Havana cigar: J. A. Bushi Soll

Beer is bound to become the American National beverage. The statistics of the brewing business in this country—and we might say, also, in this city—are aufficient to prove this; and well it is, for no beverage, except water, has a more ancient pedigree, or is freer from the demoralizing effects of whisky, gin or branding of the country of the c

Wine and beer were among the early products of industry in the colonial period of our history. English beer was brewed in March, and was not used until a year old, and English beer was considered the best in Europe. In ancient times, the monasteries brewed the best beer and ale. The brewer of bad ale was by the English, in ancient times, condemned to the ducking chair or mulcted for his neglect. Ale and beer were first made without hops, which were not raised in England until about 1524. An old writer says:

Beer was the National beverage of England, and we read that no less than 23,000 gallons were drunk at a single entertainment given to Queen Elizabeth at Kenilworth tertainment given to Queen Entraceta at Kenilworth.

Our old colonial fore-fathers recognized the value and necessity of beer. In 1637 the commonwealth of Massachusetts began to enact laws for the protection of brewers, and in that year the "General Court" ordered that "No person shall brewe say beene, or mait or othere drinks, or sell in gross or by retaile; but only such as shall be licensed by this Courte, on pain of 1005." This was the earliest mention of a brew house in the Colonies. The price at which the best quality of beer was sold in New England in 1607, was 13d, per quart. In May, 1673, the General Court of Massachusetts speaks of beer as the "principal commodispeaks of beer as the "principal commodi-ty of this country," and imposed a duty of 3d. per bushel on malt imported from

COUBLY. NAIL CITY BREWERY.

The Nail City Brewery stands on the side of the hill just east of the Eighth Ward. It is owned by a joint stock company, with a capital stock of $40,000. Mr. Frank Walters is President of the company, and Mr. Chris. Siebke the Secretary. The company was organized within the last three years, but it has already gained a reputation for good within the last three years, but it has already gained a reputation for good beer second to none in the country. This brewery last year manufactured nearly 9,000 barrels, or 33,000 kegs, of the celebrated "Nail City Beer." It has a large trade in the city, nearly the entire quantity manufactured being disposed of here. It is a solid, substantial concern, and has already earned a high reputation throughout the country.

tion in detail, there are some that are doing a large business.

We will first apeak of the old established brewery of Smith & Co., whose ales are known the country over. This brewery last year only manufactured during the firsts months, and we are obliged to take their gales instead as a data of their usual production. During the year the firm sold 2.875 barrels of ale. It may be said right here, however, that during the past five years been has become so popular with the bibulous public that the ale trade has (drooped considerably. This brewery, in its day, did an immense business. It is now owned by a joint stock company, of which Mr. W. H. Caldwell is President, and Mr. Alfred Smith the brewer.

READ AND LEARN FOR YOURSELF .-Many valuable discoveries and much use-ful knowledge is kept from the world, be-cause of the immense expense in making THE market in the Second ward yesterday morning was rather poorly attended considering the near approach of the holidays.

THE Justices never experienced aduler season than the present. We did not hear of a solitary criminal case yesterday:

THE sidewalks on the Island are in a wretched condition, and the City Council should find means to compel the citizens to keep them in a passable condition.

A Steubenville beauty mourns the lass of a husband of three weeks, which his name it was Rutherford, likewise $1,000 and a gold watch.

The river is still closed tight here, and the people are crossing on the ice. There is, of course, no river news to report.

At Memphis the movement to secure a wharfboat privilege for the benefit of the what look privilege for the beneat of the Ohio River Packet Line is popular in business circles, and will likely prove a success.

Fifteen steamers have been wiped out of existence in the past week, aggregating a total loss of $500,000. This estimate does not include barges that have been lost or correspond the steamers de-been lost or cargoes of the steamers destroyed.

The steamer Capitol City continues high and dry on the bank at the foot of Fountain Bluff, just above Grand Tower. The Cincinnati Gazette of Monday says: Business is suspended on the river for a second time. No steamers have left port since Friday, although there have been some arrivals of others bound down stream.
